The "Everything Goes Deep" Philosophy

One School of Thought at the IEA Workshop on Low Activation Material, Culham, UK, 8-12 April 1991

"Shallow land burial is impractical and politically unsound. This is true in many European countries at present and will probably be true in the US soon. It should be dropped from consideration in definition of criteria for low activation materials."